Book Day at Queen Emma

HONOLULU, HI—The Daughters of Hawai'i will be hosting the 2nd annual Book Day at Queen Emma Summer Palace on Friday, November 9th from 3:00-6:00.

Come and join the Daughters at Emmalani Hale for the 2nd annual Book Day, featuring local authors and refreshments. Admission is free! Local authors will be present to sign new (and old!) books and discuss with readers. In addition, distributors will be bringing their latest and greatest selections available for purchase.

All proceeds from the event will go to the Daughters of Hawai'i, in support of their mission to preserve the Palaces. The Daughters of Hawai'i, a membership-based organization founded in 1903, have dedicated themselves "to perpetuate the memory and spirit of old Hawai'i and of historic facts, and to preserve the nomenclature and correct pronunciation of the Hawai'ian language". Proceeds from the event will go to the restoration and preservation of Queen Emma Summer Palace and Hulihe'e Palace in Kailua-Kona.
